Mary Greer [U.S.A.] - Cartomancy in Western Art

Little is known about cartomancers. An historical record exists in genre art, which depicts ordinary people going about their everyday work and recreations. The imagery demonstrates that the practice of cartomancy has been remarkably similar for several hundred years. This presentation brings to light both the professional and recreational characteristics of those people who practiced cartomancy, and reveal their largely unseen and under-acknowledged role in everyday Western society.

Fern Mercier [New Zealand] - The Tricks of our Trade

Fortune-telling is one of the oldest professions, and like story-telling, has time-honoured traditions and trappings. Lift the veil of the High Priestess just a little, to explore the many roles a professional Card Reader plays, as well as the dynamics of a good Reading.

Russell Sturgess [Qld] - The Marseille Tarot, a Medieval Spiritual Map

Placing the major arcana in various sequences brings new meaning to the message and relationships of the cards. While writing and researching in Italy in 2006, Russell was inspired to discover a relationship between the cards of the arcana that was to expand the already rich diversity of knowledge regarding the meaning and purpose of the major arcana. Russell reveals his 'lemniscate' map of the arcana, which he will do as he explores the cards in their historical context and their eclectic symbology drawn from various medieval contemporary cultures.

Angela Kinnane [Qld] - Tarot: History and Mystery

When it comes to reading the cards it is helpful to have many layers of meaning on which to draw. In this session we will examine some of the major arcana cards and look at their historical context and symbolism. We will contrast this with more modern symbolism and explore how making connections between the two can enrich our understanding and interpretation of the cards.

Con Margaritis [Vic.] - Opening to Healing

Con's journey into the world of tarot has been influenced by his journey as a practitioner in the healing arts. Con will be sharing his understandings of the dynamics of the Client/Therapist(Reader) relationship, and how this can be utilised in readings. How we can open up to other ways of reading.

Lyn Olds [New Zealand] - Intentional Tarot

Intentional Tarot is a creative use of the 78 card tarot deck and the highly evocative symbolism contained within. As the name suggests Intentional Tarot is about intent and places the responsibility of one's life directly back where it belongs – into ones own hands. The cards act primarily as a tool to assist in achieving potential, reaching goals and manifesting desires.

Jean-Michel David [Vic.] - The Vatican and the Sacral

Apart from gaming, Tarot's place has mainly been in the art of reading and as sacred art. We'll look at how these are intertwined.
